Subject: ATA/WGA Update
Date: May 28, 2019

As you know, we reached out to the WGA last week to reopen conversations with them. As a result of our recent exchanges with guild leadership, we have proposed June 7 for our next meeting. We have also suggested getting into small working groups with members of the WGA negotiating committee prior to that. The ATA negotiating committee is working diligently over the next 10 days to ensure that this meeting is as constructive as possible.

We appreciate your continued patience throughout this process, and remain steadfast in our commitment to protecting your businesses and preserving choice and opportunities for writers. We will continue to keep you updated as things progress.
